

François NEMO, born on the 10th of October 1963

Situation:

Professor of Linguistics at the Université d'Orléans, teaching semantics, pragmatics and morphology there since 1993. A specialist of linguistic interfaces and specifically of the semantics/pragmatics interface. Director of the journal Revue de Sémantique et Pragmatique. PhD in 1992 at the EHESS under the direction of Oswald Ducrot.

Other scientific activities or responsibilities:

- Advisory Editor for the collection "Current Research in the Semantics/Pragmatics Interface. (CriSPI)", ELSEVIER SCIENCE Editions.
- Collecting and transcription of Palikur corpora (Arawakan, French Guyane);
- Creation of a Palikur lexical data-base (banks of uses).

Research areas:

- Linguistic of morphemes.
- Linguistics of constructions
- Linguistics of utterances.
- Linguistic of contributions.
- Semantics of non-structural prosody (NSP)
- Pragmatics of attention.

Five significant publications (in the last five years), apart from 3 publications with Mélanie Petit:

Nemo,F. (2010). "Routines interprétatives, constructions grammaticales et constructions discursives". Revue Estudos Linguísticos / Linguistic Studies. Université de Lisboa.

Nemo,F (2009). "Profilage temporel dans l'interprétation des morphèmes : de toujours à tout." Revue de Sémantique et Pragmatique. Numéro 25-26. Juin/Décembre

Nemo,F. (2007). "Reconsidering the Discourse marking Hypothesis". In Connectives as Discourse Landmarks (Pragmatics and Beyond New Series). Angès Celle et Ruth Huart (Editeurs). Amsterdam/Philadelphia : John Benjamins Publishing. 195-210.

Nemo,F (2007). "The Pragmatics of Common Ground. From Common knowledge to Shared Attention and Social Referencing". In Lexical Markers of Common Grounds (Studies in Pragmatics, Volume 3) Anita Fetzer & Kerstin Fischer (Editeurs). Amsterdam: Elsevier Science. 143-158.

Nemo,F (2006). "Discourse words as morphemes and as constructions". In Approaches to Discourse Particles (Studies in Pragmatics, Volume 1). Kerstin Fischer (Editeur). Amsterdam : Elsevier Science. 415-448.

Numbers of publications in international journals or reviewed proceedings: 27